MRS. KLEBBA ASKS FOR HER FREEDOM

Wedded Twice, Divorced Once In One Year.

SHE SAYS HE WAS TOO JEALOUS

Accused Her Also of Flirting With Other Men.

Sequel to the Scene in the Terminal Hotel, Where Mrs. Klebba Was Dining With a Man Who, She Declares, Was Her Uncle George of Buffalo.

MRS. IDA MAY KLEBBA.

The first wedding took place June 19, 1900, at Hillsboro, Ill. They separated shortly afterward and were divorced Oct. 1 in the same year.

Accused Her of Flirting.

Mrs. Klebba alleges in the petition filed Tuesday evening that her husband was extremely jealous of her and accused her of flirting with other men at social functions; that at one time he pointed a revolver at her head and threatened to shoot her, and that he once removed a piano from their house without her consent.

Another allegation is that Mr. Klebba, in mortgaging real estate at 1928 Virginia avenue, after their social marriage, represented himself as a single man.

Mr. Klebba formerly was traffic manager of the St. Louis Brewery Association. His wife is a woman of striking beauty. She was Miss Ida May Mobley before her marriage and resided with her mother at 4213 Olive street.

The Scene at the Terminal.

An incident antecedent to the filing of the suit for divorce occurred Saturday evening in the Terminal Hotel, at Union Station, when Mr. Klebba became wildly excited because he saw his wife dining there with another man.

In her petition Mrs. Klebba alleges that her husband upbraided her for being with this man, who, she claims, is her uncle. Mr. Klebba rushed up to the clerk in the Terminal Hotel and excitedly informed him that another man had taken his wife away. The clerk was not disposed to interfere in a family matter, and said so.

Mrs. Klebba, at the time, was at a table in the dining room. She declares that her companion was George Mobley of Buffalo, N. Y., her father's brother, who is a commission merchant in the Pan-American city.

He Was Her Uncle George.

"My uncle has been visiting my mother," said Mrs. Klebba, "at 1017A Finney avenue. I have been living with her since my husband and I separated a month ago."

Saturday evening my uncle stopped at the St. Nicholas to secure his valise. I was with him. Mr. Klebba came along and upbraided me, and my uncle placed me in a carriage and drove to Union Station."

Mr. Klebba admits that he followed the couple to Union Station and looked into the dining room and saw them at a table. "Saturday night," he says, "I started out to investigate some things I heard. I was surprised to see my wife walking out of the St. Nicholas holding the arm of a well-dressed man, about 40 years old. My wife saw me and they hurried down the street."

Story by the Husband.

"When I looked in and saw them at the Terminal my wife saw me and later they gave me the slip. I hurried back to the St. Nicholas, but the clerk denied all knowledge of the man. I understand my wife went to her mother's home."

THE MYSTERY OF MISS BABINGTON

Missing Girl's Whereabouts is Still Unknown.

H. A. WAHLERT DISAPPEARS BOTH DROPPED FROM SIGHT ON THE SAME DAY.

Young Woman's Mother Is Afraid Her Worst Fears Are True—Wahlert's Discharge and Disappearance.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—Notice is hereby given that Henry A. Wahlert, who was connected with the American Brake Co. as a mechanical engineer, left the city May 2 and has not reported, nor can he be located, although every effort has been made in this direction. He is no longer connected with the company and has no authority to make contracts or create any liabilities affecting the company—E. L. ADREON, Vice-President and General Manager—Advertisement in morning newspapers Wednesday.

The disappearance of Henry A. Wahlert of 2918 Harper street, mechanical engineer of the American Brake Company, was announced by his employer, this morning.

On May 2, the date of Wahlert's departure, Miss Etta Babington, stenographer in the department in which he was employed, left her home at 1910 Arlington avenue and has not returned.

Wahlert is not yet 20. He has a wife and family, who have given the company no information as to his whereabouts.

"The company is trying to put one and one together and make two," said Mrs. Wahlert Wednesday. "I have given them no authority to do so in this case, and I have no opinion to express about the matter."

"I only know that both the missing persons disappeared on the same day," said E. L. Adreon, vice-president and general manager of the company, "and that both have apparently left the city."

"Nothing has been heard from either of them since their departure. Wahlert has ceased to be in the company's employ, and we have announced that fact in published notices."

"Every effort has been made to find him, and I am satisfied that he is not in the city. He handled no money for the company, and the company has suffered no financial loss in his departure."

Miss Babington's mother said Wednesday that she had absolutely no knowledge of the missing girl's whereabouts.

"I never saw Mr. Wahlert," said Mrs. Babington, "and I never heard my daughter speak of him, except in a business way."

"I dislike to think that there could be any connection between the two disappearances, but I don't know what else to think. It is a very deep mystery, and I am almost demented from worrying over it."

Miss Babington left her home on the evening of May 2, after having telephoned to Miss Lily Stahlhut of Webster Groves that she would not come to make her a visit which she had planned.

When she left her home she wore a black hat with black and white lace trimmings, a white waist, a close collar, a black skirt and a black jacket. She has dark hair, blue eyes and an oval face.

The police, to whom the case has been reported by the family, say that they have made no effort to find the girl, as she is of age and has the right to go where she pleases.

40 MORE MAIL CARRIERS

Representative Joy Receives Promise of Improvement in the Mail Delivery at St. Louis.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. WASHINGTON, May 14.—Representative Joy of Missouri today saw Supt. Machen of the carriers' division of the postoffice and received the promise of improvement of all the additional help necessary for the St. Louis postoffice. He says St. Louis is to have at least 50 additional carriers by December.

About 12 of them will be put on by July and the remainder during the fall months as they are needed.

There also will be additional clerks. Out of $2 an additional appropriation of $4,000 for St. Louis about $2,000 will be devoted to pay for letter carriers.

POPULACE SUFFOCATED

Searchers Among Ruins of St. Pierre Find That Death Came to Nearly All Inhabitants With Pelee's First Withering Blast.

A military member of the official party which went to St. Pierre on the Solent has returned to Fort de France.

He vividly describes the scenes inside the destroyed town by cable for the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The members of the Solent's party were two military officers, the colonial secretary, two physicians, Dr. W. E. Anglinbaugh of Washington, several orderlies and a hospital outfit.

The description of the present condition of St. Pierre, given by the military member, is as follows:

TORNADO OF FIRE DESCENDED UPON THE STRICKEN CITY.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.—(Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.) FORT DE FRANCE, May 14.—Partial darkness overhung the town as the Solent entered the roadstead, owing to the pall of volcanic smoke which rested low above the mountains.

The coast was alive with small boats. The water was filled with swollen bodies and masses of debris from the wrecked vessels and from the town.

Flocks of scavenger birds swarmed over the water. The harbor was infested with sharks, attracted by the dead bodies. The Solent's party landed immediately.

It entered the town from what had been the scene of the main shipping. It went over what had been the principal section of St. Pierre.

Over 2000 dead bodies had been found in the streets of St. Pierre. Nearly all were lying with faces to the ground.

CINDERS SEVERAL FEET DEEP.

Cinders several feet deep covered the main part of the town. Near the River Roxline, which falls from Mont Pelee, several houses were found but little injured.

Their occupants had all perished. They had died apparently from suffocation or of strokes of lightning. They were little burned.

Some were found sitting in chairs as natural as though still living. The party went into the surrounding section of St. Pierre.

Suburban villages had suffered the fate of St. Pierre. Le Carbet on the south, which was thought to have perished, was found to have escaped almost unscathed.

The flood of lava stopped within 200 feet of the town. The tremendous force of the volcanic avalanche was shown by the fact that the strong houses of stone were leveled like pasteboard. Some of these had stood half a century.

The place was as a city swept by a cyclone of fire. The deluge must have fallen upon the town with resistless force.

TOWN'S OUTLINES ARE FAINT.

The outlines of the town but imperfectly remain. The tangle of the debris was such that it was with difficulty that the course of the street could be followed.

The party went through all the principal streets, including Rue Justin, Rue Dumas, Rue Victor Hugo, Rue L'Hopital, Rue Bouille.

The residences on upper Rue Victor Hugo were utterly annihilated. The River Roxline, dividing the old and the new towns, which in ordinary times is little more than a creek, was swollen with lava and hot water from the volcano.

ST. VINCENT ISLAND SEEMS DOOMED

Her Two Craters Pouring Out Masses of Fire Upon the Land.

THE VOLCANO'S ROAR HEARD OVER 100 MILES AWAY.

Burning District Cannot Be Reached Either by Land or Sea.

FEAR THAT FORT DE FRANCE HAS BEEN OVERWHELMED

Scientists Think it Not Improbable Affected Islands May Disappear.

CASTRIES, Island of St. Lucia, Tuesday, May 14.—The Soufriere volcano on the Island of St. Vincent, is still in destructive eruption.

A terrific cannonade can be heard a hundred miles away. The reports are followed by columns of smoke, rising miles in the air.

Immense balls of colored fire also issue from the crater. Lightning is playing fiercely in the upper sky and the whole northern part of the island is one mass of traveling flame.

It is impossible to reach the burning district by land or sea, and there are no means of estimating the destruction wrought to life and property.

Kingstown, the capital of St. Vincent, is still safe, though showers of ashes and pebbles are continually falling.

The volcano itself is invisible. CASTRIES, Island of St. Lucia, May 14.—The St. Lucia signal station here reports having seen a conflagration last night in the direction of Fort de France, Martinique.

It is feared another violent eruption has taken place in Mont Pelee.

WHOLE ISLANDS MAY DROP INTO OCEAN DEPTHS.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Scientists in this city have been particularly interested in the very recent eruption of the Soufriere, where a French cable ship has been taking soundings in connection with the recent breaking of the cables.

It has discovered that the bed of the ocean in certain parts has sunk to a depth of 300 feet. The lead showed formerly a depth of 300 feet there is now a depth of 600 feet to be fathomed. This was at some distance from Point a Pitre, and it is argued by those who understand the configuration of the earth's crust and the formation of the islands that such a serious change at so great a distance from the scene of the two disasters—Martinique and St. Vincent—means that the volcanic agencies are likely to produce still greater changes in the West Indies.

Islands from St. Vincent in the south to St. Thomas and even Jamaica in the north, form a continuous chain of volcanic craters rising from the ocean bed. These enormous chimneys penetrate through the crust of the earth, and are believed to have produced and to be still producing serious changes in the sea bed that may yet involve the whole volcanic chain of the West Indies.

Reports from St. Lucia, Dominica, Guadeloupe, Antigua and Barbuda, the Danish West Indies tell of the great apprehension of the inhabitants in these islands.

They are all volcanic and have extinct volcanoes, some of which are already showing signs of disturbance. The thinness of the earth's crust throughout the lesser Antilles, which corresponds in form and position to that of the Mediterranean, being well known, creates apprehension lest the volcanic wave may burst through at all these points and involve the West Indies in common ruin.

BALL OF FIRE DROPPED UPON DOOMED ST. PIERRE.

W. P. Lough sends the following special cable dispatch to the Post-Dispatch, describing the disaster at St. Pierre as he saw it from the deck of the steamer Korona.

Mr. Lough is a member of the firm of E. F. Darrell & Co., in the Produce Exchange building, New York. He is a wealthy resident of Staten Island, and went to the West Indies on business.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.—(Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.) DOMINICA, May 14.—Of the 40,000 persons on the island, I know of only one who escaped, and he was a prisoner in a dungeon of the jail.

There may have been others in some of the suburbs and nearby towns who survived, but I believe this man was the only one in the city itself who lived. He is alive now.

I saw St. Pierre burning last Friday from the deck of the steamer Korona. A dense pall of smoke covered the city, but when the smoke cleared, the city was a scene of utter desolation. I saw no living creature, not a single human being, and no sign of life.

The scene was a scene of utter desolation. I saw no living creature, not a single human being, and no sign of life. The city was a scene of utter desolation.

There were no roofs, no glass, no blinds in the windows, no signs of life, and no sound of life. The city was a scene of utter desolation.

COMPLETE MARKET REPORTS.

TWO MONSTERS DEVOURING ST. VINCENT

ISLAND OF ST. VINCENT, SHOWING VOLCANOES.

St. Vincent is 18 miles long and 11 miles wide, not much longer than the territory occupied by the City of St. Louis.

Out of a population of 41,000 in 1801 there were only 2,500 Europeans. It is situated in the southwestern part of the island.

The volcano was last in eruption in 1812. Then the entire island was covered with a rain of stones, ashes and lava. Ashes from the volcano fell on islands 100 miles away.

Mont Garou, also in eruption, is a few miles south of Soufriere. St. Vincent is a day's sail from Martinique.

It is nearly 300 miles from the coast of Florida. A range of densely wooded hills from 300 to 400 feet in height runs from the north to the south of the island.

LIKE A CYCLONE OF FIRE

One All-Consuming Blast of Poisoning Gases Caused the Death of St. Pierre's People in a Moment of Time.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, May 14.—St. Pierre was destroyed, not by lava streams and not by the showers of red-hot rocks, but by one all-consuming blast of suffocating, poisonous, burning gases.

Death came to the inhabitants instantly. It was not a matter of hours or minutes. It was a matter of seconds. They did not burn to death. They died by breathing flame and their bodies were burned afterward.

It is not merely true that no person inside the limits of the town escaped, but it is probably a literal fact that no person lived long enough to take two steps toward escape.

These facts, which will go on record as the most astounding in the history of human catastrophes, have been practically established by the investigations of today and yesterday at the site of the city, helped out in slight degree by the scanty testimony of the few tortoise survivors on boats in the harbor who alone suffered from the lava.

The manner of the annihilation of St. Pierre, lying in the history of the world, is a unique event. Pompeii was not a parallel, for Pompeii was eaten up by volcanic lava and lava became its tomb. But where St. Pierre once stood there is not even a lava bed now. The lava is gone from the island.

The half-dead victims who escaped on the Korona were brought here by the Suetonius, a "hurricane of flame" that had come upon them. It now appears that that phrase was no figure of speech, but a literal statement of what happened.

There are bodies lying in the streets of St. Pierre, some in the ground where streets once were, for in many places it is impossible to trace the line between streets and building sites to which death came so suddenly that the smiles on the faces did not have time to change to the lines of agony.

That does not mean death by burning, for the bodies have been charred and half consumed, not does it mean suffocation, for suffocation is slow. It can mean only the death of burning gases, which the city was plunged into when the first blast of the gases entered their lungs.

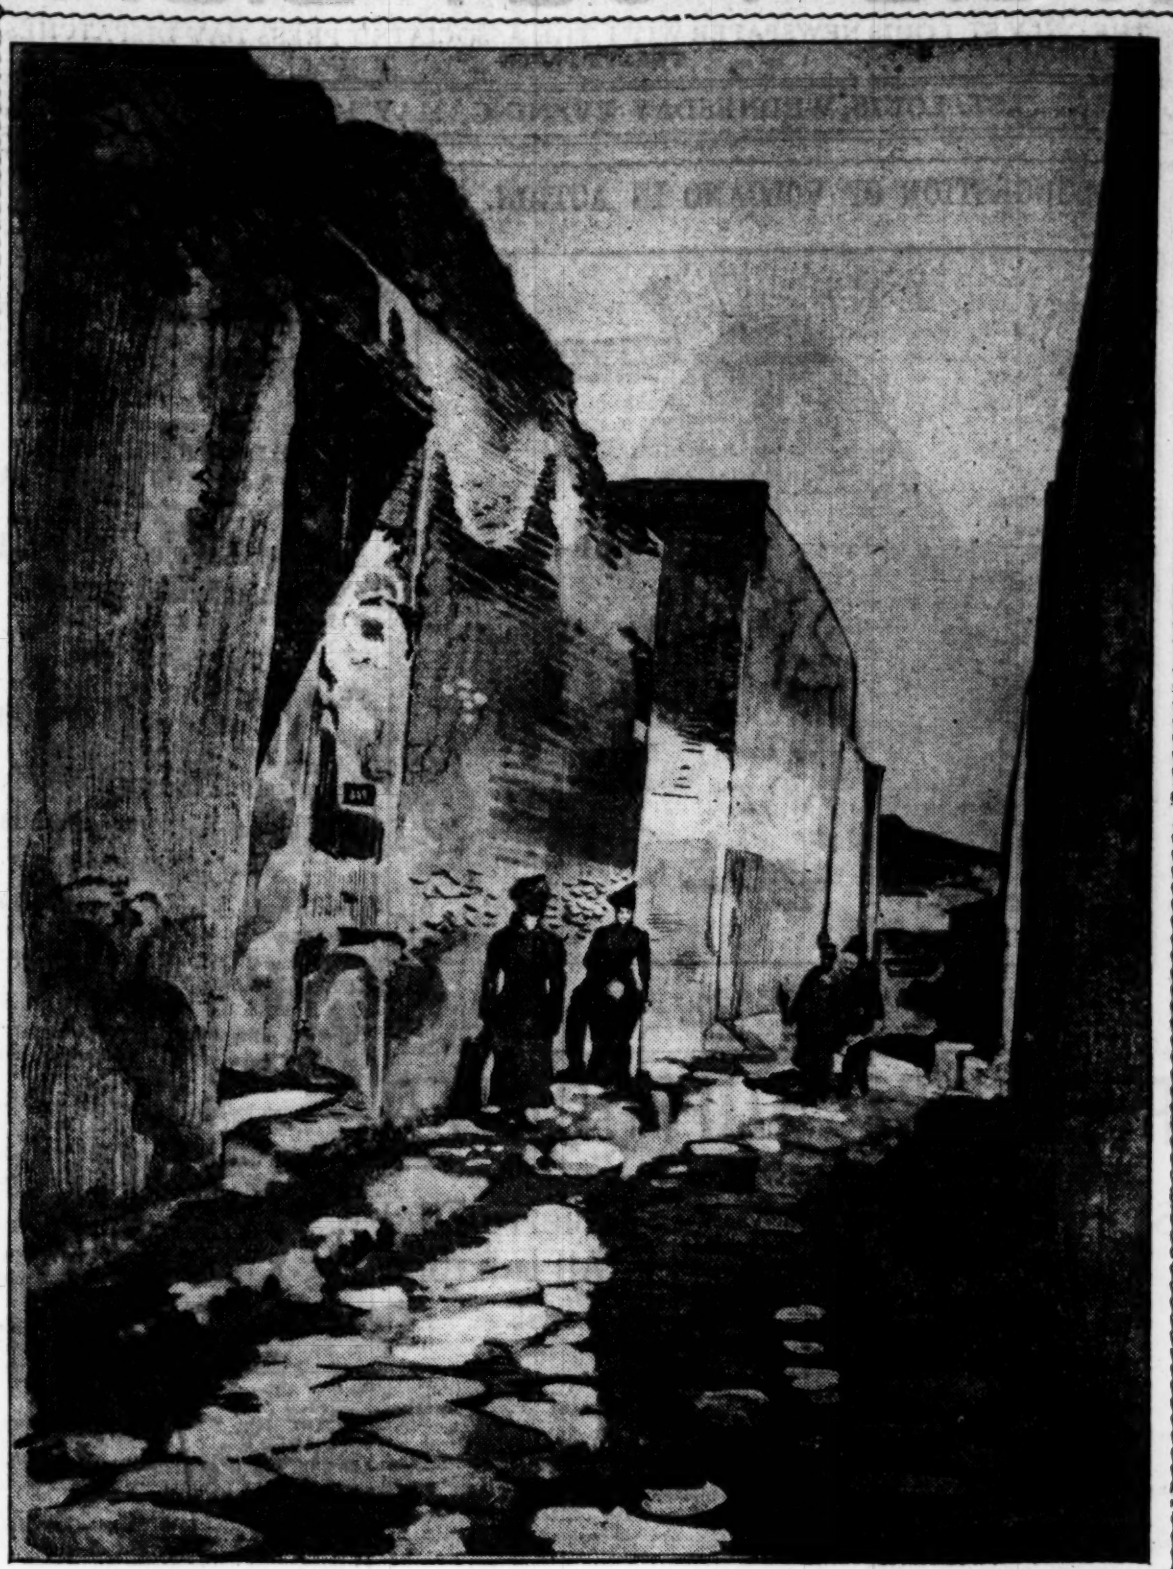

There was no time to run, perhaps not time even to cry out, no time to breathe a prayer. It was as if St. Pierre had been just dipped into an immense white-hot furnace.

Every combustible thing was burned, and from the ruins of houses, streets and piles of volcanic stones. That was all that St. Pierre and the strip of coast to the north and south of it were burned in an instant was probably due to the first blast in the mountain coming on its western side and immediately above them, though the direction of the wind may have had a little to do with it.

LAVA FLOWING FROM THE POMPEII SIDE OF VESUVIUS

POMPEII, May 14.—A dispatch from the Journal from Naples says that Vesuvius shows signs of activity. Lava is flowing from the crater on the Pompeii side, but it is more to be seen than they can do, and the next American steamer is anxiously awaited.

This photograph, taken recently in Pompeii by Charles V. Roberts of 8740 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, gives a good idea of the destructive force of a volcanic explosion such as overwhelmed St. Pierre, Martinique.

BIG FIELDS THE CAUSE OF FOULING AND ACCIDENTS.

Post-Dispatch Racing Expert's Suggestion to Improve the Fair Ground Racing—Fourth Event the Feature of Wednesday's Card.

BY R. D. WALSH.

It would be much more satisfactory to the public if the management of the Fair grounds started the races half an hour earlier, and instead of six have seven races on the program. This would obviate the necessity of putting fourteen horses in one race.

Fields Are Too Large.

And the judges will not be able to watch them as closely as if the field was composed of about ten. Accidents are also more liable to happen in a crowded field, and fouling is also a common occurrence when a large number race together. For these and other reasons it would be a great improvement if the fields were narrowed down to eight or ten. This after-noon's card is composed of the usual six races, and the first, second and sixth have fourteen runners.

NEW ROWING CLUB FOR LOCAL HARBOR.

Will Put a Barge Crew on the Water as Soon as Practicable.

HENRY HOLT CAMP, Secretary of the Missouri Rowing Club.

St. Louis' growing reputation for fostering rowing was added to by the announcement given out yesterday that a new club had entered the local harbor and was flying its flag with the six already here, before the close of the present season.

For some time a number of North end enthusiasts have been laying plans for the establishment of a new aquatic organization, the result being the formation of the Missouri Rowing Club.

Steps will be immediately taken to build a handsome home and application for membership in the Southwestern Rowing association, the central organization, will be made shortly.

The officers of the new club have been elected as follows: Nicholas Le Grand, president; James Brady, vice-president;

James O'Laughlin, secretary; Henry Holt-kamp, treasurer, and Al Nest, sergeant-at-arms.

The colors of the club are orange and black. It is hardly probable that these will

regatta as the time is too short for the formation and drilling of the crew.

The clubhouse cannot be completed for some weeks, which will next season enter all of the open local events.

The home of the new club will be on the river front in North St. Louis. The exact site is not yet announced.
